

Filter Simulators

Description

The filter simulator is a device that has a specified mass, size and pressure drop according to the relevant standard. There are three versions which cover European and Australian standards. They each incorporate an EN 148-1 male thread. These simulators are intended to be used with a breathing machine, breathing resistance test equipment or inward leakage test equipment as required.

Services required

None

Available versions

1FISH 500g, 96mm long covering AS/NZS 1716:2012 and EN 136:1998.
1FISL 300g, 96mm long covering EN 140:1998.
1FISS 300g, 50mm long covering EN 142:2002.